Authorities await reports in Christmas homicide

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

Local authorities conducting murder and arson investigations in connection with the Christmas death of Frank Lombardo Jr. of Bay St. Louis this week are awaiting test results from state agencies.

Police Chief Ray Murphy said Tuesday the investigation was continuing but at that stage his department was waiting for results of an autopsy.

Lombardo's body was removed from his burned-out residence on McDonald Lane late Christmas Night by funeral director Edmond Fahey of Bay St. Louis and sent to the Mississippi State Medical Examiner's Office in Jackson for autopsy.

Harold Stiglet, Hancock County coronor, said late Tuesday he expected to receive complete autopsy results by Friday.

Preliminary autopsy information relayed to Stiglet by State Medical Examiner Dr. Thomas Bennett last week indicated Lombardo had been shot twice.

One bullet entered the top of the head and the other bullet entered the chest.

Bennett estimated the time of death to be approximately 2 a.m. Dec. 25.

Murphy reported that Lombardo was shot with a .32 caliber weapon.

Lombardo's body was discovered about 16 hours later by Bay St. Louis firefighters after extinguishing a fire at the 114 McDonald Lane residence.

The fire was reported by a neighbor who saw a "red glow" from the windows and then flames as the fire erupted.

Norman Cowart, state fire marshal, visited the scene for a second time Tuesday but declined to comment on the cause of the fire.

Cowart said when he received the results of tests conducted by the Mississippi Crime Laboratory he would issue a report to local authorities.

Bay St. Louis Fire Chief Andrew Lizana said he did "have suspicions" about the fire but would not comment on whether arson was involved.

"The police have a much bigger investigation going on at the scene now and when it is settled we will go back for further investigation into the cause of the fire," he said.

Lizana added that the fire department does not want to disturb possible evidence in the homicide investigation.

Police authorities currently are searching the Lombardo residence for additional evidence with the assistance of trustys from the Hancock County Jail.

Murphy, along with Bay Detective David Murtagh, are also in the process of questioning several persons in connection with the investigation.

Murphy said there are a large number of suspects at this time and because the investigation is in progress declined to be more specific.

It may take the department as long as three months just to question all the suspects, he said.

The police department is being assisted in the investigation by the Hancock County Sheriff's Department and the Mississippi Highway Patrol.

New building, computers boost tax office in '85

By DENA BISNETTE

Technology and new facilities in 1985 changed the way tax records are kept in Hancock County and further advances are expected during 1986.

According to Tax Collector-Assessor Edward Murtagh, 1985 saw many changes in his office.

The tax office moved out of its outgrown quarters in the courthouse and into the Hancock County Courthouse Annex, formerly the McDonald Furniture Building, providing room for expansion of services as well as the office's computer system.

"Because of the wisdom of the supervisors in purchasing this property, we have this wonderful office with the room we needed and room for the future," he said.

"By keeping abreast of what other counties are doing, we can improve either by trying to emulate them or by being innovative when the need is there."

Once the new facilities were ready, the operation of the tax office was completely computerized.

Presently, two systems, one provided through South Mississippi Planning and Development District (SMPDD) and one through the state, are being used.

The SMPDD system is used for records on property taxes while the state system is used for car tag records.

Taylor terms technology center biggest legislation of 85

By DENA BISNETTE

Through its approval of funding for the Mississippi Technology Transfer Center, legislators hope to keep young people with college degrees in technological fields from having to leave the state to find work.

"Funding for the center was the biggest thing we passed during 1985," State Senator Gene Taylor said.

The center is a high-technology facility proposed for construction at National Space Technology Laboratories in Hancock County. NASA and the State of Mississippi will occupy about half of the center, with NASA leasing the remaining space to high technology contractors.

"That should create about 250 to 275 white-collar jobs out at the test site," Taylor said.

"Hopefully that will help young people, particularly those with some types of technical degrees, to make plans to stay in the state. That is how we sold the appropriation bill on the Senate floor."

"That was a long shot. It was more than that; it was a 1,000-to-one longshot."

"That was a longshot. It was more than that; it was a 1,000-to-one longshot. It took two tries to pass it," he added.

Taylor is preparing for the beginning of the 1986 session on Jan. 7 and hopes some of the bills to be introduced this year meet with approval more easily than the technology transfer center funding.

Among the legislation Taylor plans to introduce himself are two bills involving education.

One is a proposal to decrease the number of major universities in the state by eliminating smaller colleges. Those left will include University of Southern Mississippi, Mississippi State University, Jackson State University and University of Mississippi.

Taylor said he feels that with the state's population and the amount of funding for state institutions declining, there is not enough need for eight universities.

His proposed bill will not affect junior colleges.

"We have a good feeder system for our universities in our junior colleges and the way the schools are geographically situated they cover the state pretty well," he explained.

A second bill would create a $4 million scholarship program for students who agree to spend four years teaching in Mississippi public schools after they graduate. The program would be based upon the same principles as R.O.T.C. programs requiring military service.

Other bills dealing with education Taylor expects to see passed include further efforts toward leasing 16th Section land at fair market value; appropriations for the second $1,000 installment in teacher pay raises promised after last year's strike; and kindergarten funding.

Taylor is also expecting to introduce a bill requiring that lobbyists register, to wear identification tags and report all expenditures by recipient.

"They presently have to report only those expenditures of over $25 per day. I have no problem with the lobbyists being there, but I want them to report because the public should be aware of how their legislators are being influenced."

"Voters ought to know who's spending their time with these people. Votes on important issues are almost always close and there is no way their influence would not count."

Also coming up in 1986 will be further efforts to reduce the tax burden placed on individual homeowners by reappraisal.

"That was one of our biggest disappointments. No bill ever cleared committee," Taylor said.

"With a week left, we had to suspend the rules to bring up a bill that passed 48-1, but it was defeated in the House."

Also coming up are further attempts to weaken conflict of interest laws that prevent public officials from doing business with the entities they serve and a proposal to limit the legislature to 40 senators and 80 representatives.

BaySide man captured after high-speed chase

By DENA BISNETTE

A BaySide Park man has been released on bond following a car chase that reached speeds of up to 100 m.p.h. and damaged a Waveland patrol car.

Ronald Garcia Jr., 20, apparently shot himself in the left arm before the incident, which occurred at about 6 a.m. Tuesday, Waveland Police Chief Donald Dorn said.

Garcia was arrested after the chase and charged with driving 100 m.p.h. in a 50 m.p.h. zone, running a stop sign, reckless driving, failure to yield, no driver's license and damaging city property.

He was released on property bond and taken by police officers to Hancock General Hospital, where he was treated for the gunshot wound and released.

Residence damaged by fire

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

The Bayou La Croix residence of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Weysham was severely damaged by fire Dec. 28.

Volunteer firefighters from BaySide Park and Clermont Harbor were assisted by Waveland firefighters Saturday when the fire started from and undetermined cause.

BaySide Park volunteers responded again Monday when smoldering insulation burst into flames again.

Area Neighborhood Watch Chairman Martin DeSalvo said this incident was a case where the house was not destroyed because of a community effort to extinguish the fire.

DeSalvo said he knew of several homes that were totally lost in the area but everybody around came to work together to save as much as possible in this case.

Youth in stable condition following shooting accident

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

Christopher Lee, 14, of Bay St. Louis is in stable condition at the Hancock General Hospital following a shooting accident.

The youth's mother, Mrs. Lee, said the boy was shot in the chest while playing in the yard of a friend's home.

The gun, which was lying on the floor after being thrown by the son, opened a hole.

"It was not a large caliber gun, but it was a .38 Smith & Wesson," Mrs. Lee said.

Mrs. Lee said that the boy was taken to the hospital immediately after the shooting and is now in stable condition.

Leaving the bullet where it is," she said.

Although Gibson will remain in the hospital for several weeks, he was removed from the intensive care unit Tuesday.

Bay St. Louis Police Chief Ray Murphy said that the shooting was not a gang-related incident and that the police are not currently investigating the case.

Garcia then allegedly traveled west at high speed down US-90, then down Waveland Avenue to Sears Avenue and South Street.

Dorn said more charges may be possible after the amount of damage to the car has been determined.

Waveland authorities were assisted by the Bay St. Louis Police Department, Hancock County Sheriff's Department and state troopers.

The incident is still under investigation.

Card of Thanks

A SPECIAL THANKS

At this time of year everyone is looking back over the past year and making resolutions for the new.

For our family, this past year included the loss of our home due to fire. Worst was the loss of so many sentimental things within it that cannot be replaced.

This was a very emotionally trying time for us that we could not have borne alone.

We would like at this time to thank our family and all our wonderful friends and neighbors who came to help in so many ways.

Thanks also to Humane Society and St. Vincent De Paul Society members who were so generous at this time, and to the wonderful staff at Waveland Elementary.

I don't know how we could have made it without you.

So at this time we would like to share our New Year's resolution with you:

We will thank God every night for the rest of our lives for such wonderful people and ask Him to return your kindnesses to you manyfold in all the New Years to come.

Pearlington's F&AM Diamond Lodge to install 103rd slate of officers

A 103-year-old Masonic lodge in Pearlinton will install its 1986 slate of officers in 3 p.m. ceremonies Saturday at the lodge hall on Chestnut Street.

The first slate of officers were installed by Henry A. Boyet, worshipful master of Moses Cook Lodge No. 111 of Gainesville on Mar. 4, 1883 after the new Pearlinton lodge was chartered.

The first worshipful master of Diamond Lodge was Marion F. Baxter and J. A. Mead was senior warden. Junior warden was Asa Hursey; George H. Madison was treasurer; W. A. Brown, secretary; and James Mitchell was steward and tiller.

The 1986 officers to be installed Saturday include Robert Dawsey, worshipful master; Marlin Cagle, senior warden; Frank Smith, junior warden; Frank Bello III, treasurer; Whitman Rayburn, secretary; and W. J. Sharp, steward and tiller.

Time to prepare for 1986 garden

By Milo Burnham and Jim Perry
Horticulture and Landscape Specialists

Cooperative Extension Service

It's a new year and the gardening slate is clean. This year let's chalk up as many successes as possible and keep the mistakes to a minimum.

One of the first steps to a better vegetable garden in 1986 is to have your soil tested for limestone and fertilizer needs. If we've written it once, we've written it a hundred times and probably said it several thousand times, "Test your garden soil."

Why bother to soil test? Because without a fertilizer and lime recommendation, gardeners either over-fertilize and lime or under-fertilize and lime, but typically over-fertilize and under-lime.

Very few gardeners without a recommendation in hand can treat their garden soil properly. If your vegetable plants don't grow as they should, if they don't produce as much as you expect, if they die early, have serious disease problems or don't produce anything at all, you might be able to eliminate many of these problems by following fertilizer and lime recommendations based on a recent soil test.

While there is next to nothing to do in the garden in early January you can collect a soil sample. Your local county Extension office has soil sample boxes and instructions to assist you. The cost is nominal compared to the benefits you'll gain and you'll know you are on the right road to making 1986 a great gardening year.

Some of the coldest temperatures of the year are experienced in January. If you have stored vegetables like sweet potatoes and winter squash take precautions to prevent their becoming chilled. Also, be ready to cover cold frames and hot beds to keep seedlings and plants from freezing.

Keep check on hobby greenhouse heaters so that they don't malfunction or fail during periods of extremely cold temperatures. With low temperatures and limited or no greenhouse ventilation, fumes from heaters with flames can accumulate and injure plants. Drooping plants, yellow leaves, shedding leaves and funny-looking growth are all indicators of a fume problem.

By January foliage of many houseplants has yellowed or withered due to low light and low humidity indoors. Increase humidity by misting or by placing flowerpots on trays of moistened gravel. Provide bright light by placing plants in southern windows.

During the dreary weather of January, you can have a few spring flowers indoors by forcing branches of deciduous flowers to bloom. Cut long branches of forsythia, spirea, winter honeysuckle and quince. Bring them indoors and place them in warm water. Blooms will appear within a week or 10 days.

Gardeners often think of birds during cold weather. Check feeders as snow and icy weather arrive. Make plans to add plants which provide bird food and cover in the garden. Some good choices include barberry, Beauty berry, Mahonia, Dogwood, Cotoneaster, Elaeagnus, Privet, Boston Ivey, Cedar, Pyracantha, Oak, Pine, Juniper, Chinaberry, Mulberry, Sumac, Elderberry, Hemlock, Wax myrtle, Native Yaupon, Chinese Holly, Blackberries and Magnolia.

It's time to make your list of seed and supplies needed for the spring and summer growing season. Review catalogs and visit local garden centers as early as possible so you can locate everything you want. Planting time will be here sooner than we think.

In the meantime, catch up on a little reading. Try "Design On the Land" by Norman Newton. This comprehensive book on garden design and landscaping will make a great addition to your collection of gardening books. It's one of the best books for background and understanding of landscape architecture.

GOVERNOR'S HIGHWAY SAFETY PROGRAM

Quotables by CUEVAS

The year 1986 is already here and it looks like a lot of things will be happening in Hancock County. The Hancock Medical Center's construction is underway and will be a much needed asset to the county.

On Monday groundbreaking will take place for the new Hancock County Jail. This facility is something which has been needed for many years.

It took a lot of effort on the part of many folks to get the jail construction underway.

The restoration of Central Avenue in Bay St. Louis is underway and this is really needed.

We can remember before Central, or Railroad Avenue as it was known then, was nothing but a very dusty road.

The sand would be several inches deep in many sections, and it would be a task to ride a bicycle over, even with the larger tires on bikes.

Controlling an auto was also no easy task in the thick sand.

The City of Waveland should continue to grow at the rapid pace as it has for the last ten years, with many more projects underway.

Several streets in Waveland are scheduled for surfacing in a few months, in addition to some patching to the Beach Road.

And we can remember when the only streets paved in Waveland were Beach Boulevard, Coleman and Waveland Avenues from Beach Boulevard to Central, and Central Avenue from Coleman to Waveland Avenue.

Waveland has come a long way in recent years. The formation of the Hancock County Beachfront Technical Advisory Council in 1985 by the Board of Supervisors is something we have needed for many years.

This is an area of long range planning for the future of our beachfront and should benefit the county for many years to come.

On the other side of the coin, we are dissatisfied with status of kindergarten preparations in our school systems.

We are hoping our young children, who will be attending school for the first time, will not have to attend school in a trailer.

These youngsters will be our community leaders of tomorrow.

The combination of the two school systems in Hancock County should be given serious study in 1986.

A county unit system should also be evaluated in 1986.

We are also hoping our political leaders will continue in their efforts to bring more jobs to our residents.

We hope 1986 will be a good year for Hancock County and all of its residents.

Happy New Year to everyone.

Focus on Small Business

U.S. Small Business Administration

By Charles A. Gillis
Branch Manager
Gulfport Branch Office

Small businesses, like other segments of our society, are deeply concerned over the rising costs of health care. While the rises in costs have slowed, it's estimated that total national health expenditures will be as high as $1 trillion in 1993.

As a report by the U. S. Small Business Administration's Office of Advocacy says, small businesses have initiated measures to contain health care costs. Some small firms have increased their employees' share of costs. Small firms also are controlling costs by joining coalitions. Coalitions can serve as mechanisms for small firms to urge policymakers, insurers and health care providers within their state to keep costs down.

Many small firms have difficulty in getting adequate information about the types and relative costs of various health care plans. The New York Business Group on Health, one of about 150 coalitions in the country, helps employers obtain information through newsletters, workshops and other networks. Special needs of businesses in the New York City area are met through projects such as an emergency team program that provides services to many small firms located within one building.

One innovative approach to reducing costs for small firms is employee leasing arrangements, where workers are technically shifted to another company through leasing. The leasing company initially hires the employees and administers wages, benefits, pensions and taxes. The small business for whom the employees work pays for these costs, as well as a fee for the leasing company's services. Leasing companies can obtain lower rates for health insurance because they are larger than their clients. Small employers also avoid administrative burdens under this arrangement.

Some small firms join an association, local chamber of commerce or multiple employer trust to pool health risks and thereby cut costs by spreading risks and fixed administrative costs.

For example, the SBA report says the Council of Smaller Enterprises in Cleveland, Ohio, representing 6,000 small businesses that employ about 150,000 workers, guarantees its members a per employee health insurance rate that is $5.50 less than the market rate.

The council says the rate differential can be expected to increase in an employer's second and third year of membership. Claims information is collected on covered employees and in a few years will be used to receive competitive bids for premiums.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Responsibility for homeless animals questioned

The Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Sir:

Due to a transfer, our family has had to leave your beautiful and friendly area very recently.

During our long stay here, only one very disillusioning and unbelievable thing happened which we would like to bring to the attention of your readership in hopes that they will begin to raise some questions about the activities of both the Hancock County Humane Society, Inc. and the Hancock County Animal Shelter.

Two months prior to our transfer, we contacted the society to ask for their assistance in rescuing some homeless animals.

The area in which they were living seemed to have become a "dumping ground" for unwanted pets, and before contacting the society, we had rescued eleven of these animals and after having them spayed or neutered, placed them in excellent homes.

We knew that we had to leave before we could do the same for the remainder. After dozens of attempts, we reached the appointed president of the society who made many promises to us.

We finally gave up the idea of help from this society and tried the Hancock County Animal Shelter, reasoning that since the people of the county support the shelter and its employees through tax dollars, it would be more responsive.

The situation with getting their help and their attitude was equally deplorable.

The woman who answered the telephone when we called many times was verbally abusive when we asked when we might expect to hear from one of the animal control officers.

One finally called, but again we just got broken promises.

Eventually, after much inquiring around, we contacted a person who had been quite active in the society prior to the take over by the group now in charge, and through the help of this kind individual, without any fanfare, the animals were very professionally rounded up and placed in good homes.

We were very thankful for this, but are well-aware of what the fate of these animals would otherwise have been.

What about the other animals of our county needing assistance?

Through asking around, we learned that the treatment which we received is wide-spread and that even the spay/neuter program which the society advertises is almost non-existent.

We feel that those who support the society through various contributions should ask its present leadership where its funds are being used and indeed, what its functions are.

In the same vein, we feel that Hancock County tax payers should question their local representatives about shelter operations.

Don't the animals of our county deserve the care of concerned and trained personnel?

Our prayer for 1986 is that there are enough concerned citizens to do some raising of questions, and bring about some changes in both the society and the shelter.

Sincerely,
Diane (Mrs. William) Ford

Eyes on Mississippi

By Bill Minor

JACKSON—A movement which could create a new political agenda of progressivism to replace the traditional politics of personality in Mississippi is being launched by several dozen Mississippians regarded as part of a new wave of leadership.

The infant organization, significantly called Mississippi 2001 and spearheaded by Biloxi Mayor Gerald Blessey, is seeking to involve progressive political and civic leaders from throughout the state in creating a public forum on reform issues.

An initial forum is slated for the early part of February in Jackson, bringing together a dozen or more speakers to discuss constitutional reform, public education and economic development. It will be the first of a series of forums to be held throughout the state.

The group, Blessey stresses, is both bi-racial and bi-partisan, and is aimed in no way at furthering the political career of any individual, or providing a political sounding board for any future candidates.

"We are looking beyond the next election," Blessey declared. "What we are looking at is achieving goals of where we want to be in Mississippi by 2001 in terms of quality education, governmental reform and economic development."

While Mississippi 2001 won't endorse any candidates for office, it hopes that future candidates will embrace reforms that gain consensus from the public debates.

Since Mississippians have not had a tradition for making political choices based on healthy public discussion of reform issues, one of the prime concepts of the group is to build a better climate for electing progressives.

"We would hope these public forums will create a measuring stick by which Mississippians will pick their legislators and other officials in the future," the Biloxi mayor, a former state representative, said.

Backers of the movement range from Clay County Attorney Bennie Turner, believed to be the only black countywide elected official in North-east Mississippi to Sid Davis, a bank president from Mendenhall, who is a past president of the Mississippi Economic Council.

Initial focus of the forum will be on the need for a new state constitution to be submitted to the people by the end of 1987, and full implementation of the 1982 Education Reform Act, together with further improvements in education.

The emphasis upon constitutional reform is geared to provide broader public discussion of the matters considered next year by Gov. Bill Allain's constitutional commission. Blessey, along with several others on the steering committee of Mississippi 2001, is a member of the governor's commission.

"I don't believe there is any conflict with what is done on the governor's commission," Blessey said, adding, "the more exposure constitutional reform is given, the better it will be."

Without specifically referring to the apparent discontent among blacks over rulings by former Gov. J. P. Coleman, the chairman of the constitutional commission, during the Dec. 11 meeting, Blessey said "it is clear that the new black leadership needs to be heard or there will be no new constitution ratified."

Some observers are skeptical that the Allain constitutional commission may not accomplish any meaningful result in getting a new state constitution and that a movement such as Mississippi 2001 will be needed to keep the reforms alive.

One member of Mississippi 2001's steering committee said "the reforms we are talking about can't be achieved as a compromise between the old guard and the new guard...this goes beyond any sort of a political trade-off."

Blessey said he believes there is a "broad network" of Mississippians eager to set progressive agenda for the state. "This idea of a public forum is a way for them to get involved," he said.

"We have had a cult of personality to dominate our politics in Mississippi," Blessey declared. "We need to set a new tradition of issue-oriented politics."

The People's Business

A Weekly Editorial
From Mississippi Economic Council

THE GIFT OF FREEDOM
Is there a gift greater than the gift of freedom?

For six years now Mississippians have been giving the gift of freedom to their children in a special way. The gift has been special knowledge and appreciation of the American free enterprise system, passed on to the school children of Mississippi by hundreds of Mississippi business firms and individuals.

Gifts of freedom and economic opportunity have been passed on to children in almost every public school district and in almost every private school in Mississippi.

These gifts have been passed on in the form of contributions to Mississippi's American Enterprise Center, a free enterprise education activity of the Mississippi Economic Council.

Mississippians decided six years ago that the gift of freedom and economic opportunity was, indeed, a worthy gift for our children. The "gift" has included free enterprise youth rallies for thousands of high school students, free enterprise visual aids materials for students in grades 1-12, a high school free enterprise curriculum supplement, special free enterprise emphasis on eight college and university campuses, and special free enterprise education training for the teachers of our children.

What better time than at Christmas to thank those Mississippians who have provided this gift of freedom, and, at the same time, to recommit ourselves to the principles of free enterprise and freedom for all Americans.

Emergency order opens certain Jackson County waters for oystering

An emergency order by the Mississippi Commission on Wildlife Conservation, enacted Dec. 30, opens oyster tonging reefs in certain waters of Jackson County at sunrise Jan. 1, according to Dr. Richard L. Leard, director, Bureau of Marine Resources.

Those areas opened as tonging reefs are Point aux Chenes Bay, north of a line from the mouth of Brown Bayou eastward to the southwestern tip of Grand Batture Island, which is just south of L'Isle Chauve.

This also includes Bangs Lake, Bangs Bayou and that part of Bayou Cumbest south of its junction with Crooked Bayou.

Also, all waters of Bayou Heron will be open for oyster harvesting by tonging only.

Restrictions are as follows:
—A daily possession limit of three sacks per boat.

—All sacks must be tagged.

—No oysters under three inches may be taken.

—Prior to and after oystering, oyster harvesters must check in at the office of the Bureau of Marine Resources.

The Jackson County office is located on East Hwy. 90 at the old truck scales.

All oystering and oystering activities must cease no later than sunset.

Those persons engaged in the harvesting of oysters are urged to cooperate with the BMR enforcement officers concerning culling, tagging, bagging and quitting time for all activity, each day at sunset, Leard said.

Community Association plans start of new tradition at Diamondhead

Diamondhead Community Association is sponsoring a Twelfth Night Festival and tree burning at Diamondhead Trailer Park beginning at 5 p.m. Sunday.

All residents and their families are invited to the festival which the association hopes to make an annual event, according to spokesperson Betty Claggett.

The association will pick up the trees of festival participants who register before noon Saturday at Hancock Bank's Diamondhead Branch or by calling 255-1686 or 255-7776.

Participants should bring their own chairs. The association will provide free hot dogs, chili, coffee and soft drinks.

In the event of rain Sunday, the event will be staged Monday, Claggett said.

Hancock Vo-Tech offers adult evening courses

The Pearl River Junior College Hancock County Vocational-Technical Center located adjacent to Stennis Airfield is offering several adult evening vocational courses during the Spring 1986 semester.

Business and office vocational courses will include: Accounting I (Bookkeeping), Shorthand I, Typing I, and Word Processing.

Trade and industrial courses offered are Air Conditioning & Refrigeration, Auto Mechanics, Carpentry/Cabinetmaking, Drafting, Electricity, Machine Shop, and Welding.

Cost per course varies from $45 to $150 depending on course selection.

Classes that develop will begin meeting Jan. 13, and continue for 17 weeks with students meeting one or two nights per week, depending on course selection.

Students may register anytime Tuesday, Jan. 7 and Wednesday, Jan. 8, from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m. or on Thursday, Jan. 9, from 8 a.m. until 7 p.m.

In the event ten or more students do not register and pay fees, the scheduled course will be cancelled. For further information, contact

LOW BACK PAIN

If back pains are a way of life for you, the reasons can be varied and complex. Some may be pathological, but very often the cause is muscles which are either over or under-exercised which are producing spinal distortion. Vertebrae slip into abnormal positions, resulting in "pinched" and irritated nerves, which cause pain and even loss of function of the affected body part. Poor posture, or even emotional tension, can be the root cause.

THE FRONTIER

YESTERDAY'S SOLUTION.

TODAY'S SOLUTION.

ASSAULT rodenticide is powerful enough to control rodents with as little as a single feeding. Saving your bait, your labor and your money.

In many cases, you will begin to see dead rats and mice as soon as 24 hours after they eat ASSAULT.

Fact is, a 1 1/2 ounce package of ASSAULT will kill six rats or more than 20 mice.

Yesterday's solutions couldn't come close to today's solution.

ASSAULT A WEAPON WITH ENOUGH STRENGTH TO DESTROY THE ENEMY.

JESUS CHRIST
said to his disciples,
"He that heareth you heareth me; and he that despiseth you despiseth me; and he that despiseth me despiseth him that send me." (Luke 10:16.)
It is a known fact that all top leaders of Red Communist Russia despise and persecute the Christians of that country, they are antichristian, therefore, they are antichrist leaders.
As a service to God and country, we invite you to write for FREE information on the leaders of Russia. From the pages of the Bible they are described. Christian Consultants Inc., Rt. 2, Box 111, Perkinston, Ms. 39573.

Livestock operators charged

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has charged Thurman Guillot and Joe Mack Smith, of Poplarville with doing business as a livestock dealer and order buyer without a bond. They do business as Monk Cattle Co.

B.H. (Bill) Jones, head of USDA's Packers and Stockyards Administration, said Guillot and Smith buy livestock at auction markets in southern Mississippi and northern Louisiana.

Guillot and Smith have a right to a hearing on the federal administrative charges filed by USDA under authority of the Packers and Stockyards (P&S) Act.

If the charges are proven, they will be placed under a cease and desist order, similar to an injunction. Their registration to do business could also be suspended and they could be ordered to pay a civil penalty.

The P&S Act is an antitrust, fair trade practice and payment protection law. It is designed to maintain integrity in the marketing of livestock, poultry and meat, and economic law and order in the marketplace.

Murtagh.....

In 1986, Murtagh hopes to be able to integrate the two computer systems.

Expansion of the computer system has increased the amount of tax information available, allowing anyone with an inquiry about a piece of property to obtain much more information than was previously available, he explained.

In addition, processing of tax information and payments has become less time-consuming and expensive than before the computer systems were expanded.

"We're able to answer three to four times as much mail as we did before. We're also finding we have more and more people who want to pay taxes early and we can accommodate them," he added.

What used to take six to eight weeks to do now takes only a few days. For example, about 40,000 tax billings were mailed out Monday and about 7,000 Homestead Exemption forms were mailed out on Tuesday.

The tax collector's office is one of a few in the state allowed to print its own homestead exemption forms. This year's forms were completed by Nov. 1 and were mailed this week to meet a Jan. 1 deadline.

Previously, the state printed the forms and distributed them to the counties. Last year, they arrived two weeks after the state-imposed deadline, the tax assessor explained.

In addition, the office now prints all of its own tax billings and land rolls as well as those for Bay St. Louis and Waveland.

Any taxes for Bay St. Louis can now be paid through Murtagh's office. The City of Waveland still picks up and mails out its tax forms.

In addition, taxes can now be paid by mail rather than in person.

"We have found the public to be very responsive to our efforts. Most of the people who come in or call usually just want information," he said.

"We have a good set-up now and I believe it will be even better in the future."

"One of the things I'd like to see us do is expand our printing capabilities so the office can become self-sufficient."

"I'm also looking to the time that there will be only one tax bill for both the county and Bay St. Louis, rather than separate bills."

The tax assessor and collector's office has also maintained a special department for continuous updating of reappraisal, which was completed in-house by the county rather than by a contractor.

Murtagh explained that counties that contracted to have the state-ordered reappraisal completed generally update only once each year.

Although reappraisal was designed to equalize the amount of property tax, most of the tax burden has been placed on individual homeowners rather than on public utilities or corporations owning large tracts of land, such as timber-related industries.

Murtagh said he was disappointed that something was not done to correct the problem during 1985.

"I think the people need some relief from taxes and I am hoping that legislation will take away some of the burden," he explained.

He said another advance during 1985 was the continued increase in the county's tax base, which now totals about $130 million despite the fact that there are few major industries in Hancock County.

He said he expects a continued increase with the construction of the Mississippi Technology Transfer Center at National Space Technology Laboratories and a proposed aircraft plant at Stennis Field Industrial Park.

Special bus planned for St. Stanislaus reunion

Alumni from the Gulf Coast area who will be traveling to the St. Stanislaus Alumni Reunion Jan. 25 may ride a chartered bus to and from New Orleans.

Joey Monti of Bay St. Louis has arranged for the bus service which will leave from the SSC campus and go directly to the Jefferson-Orleans in Metairie which is the site of the reunion.

The bus will return to Bay St. Louis after the reunion.

Reservations for the "Rock-A-Chaw Express" must be made by

Jan. 8 so that sufficient spaces can be provided.

Reservations may be made by calling Monti during the week between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. at 467-8246.

This year's alumni reunion will honor classes of 1946, 1956, 1961, 1966 and 1976.

However, the reunion is open to all St. Stanislaus alumni and their wives or dates.

Further information regarding the reunion may be obtained by calling the alumni office at St. Stanislaus, 467-9057.

Second semester registration set at Alcorn

Registration for the 1986 spring semester at Alcorn State University-Lorman, Miss., will be held Jan. 6-7 in the Ballroom of the Campus Union Building.

Registration will be held from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. for undergraduate students and from 9 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. for graduate students. Dormitories will open on Sunday, Jan. 5.

Alcorn State University Division of Nursing in Natchez, located at 500 Beltline Highway, will start registration on Friday, Jan. 3 at 9:30 a.m.

Alcorn State University was established by an act of the Mississippi Legislature on May 13, 1871—thereby making it the second oldest state-supported institution of higher learning in the state of Mississippi. It has the distinction of being the oldest historically black land-grant institution in the United States.

For more information regarding registration, contact the Office of the Registrar on the second floor of the Administration/Classroom Building; the telephone number is (601) 877-6170.

Q. Is caffeine considered a drug and what are some of the effects?
(L.W. Pickens, MS)

A. Caffeine is the world's most popular drug.

In its natural form it is a white, bitter, crystal-like substance mostly found in coffee, tea and cola.

The effects of caffeine begin in approximately 15-30 minutes after drinking only 2 cups of coffee.

A person's body temperature and blood pressure may increase due to the effects.

Other effects include an increased urine production, higher blood sugar levels, hand tremors, decreased appetite and delayed sleep.

Higher doses cause nausea, diarrhea, headaches and nervousness.

Extremely high doses have occurred and may result in breathing failure which could cause death.

It is almost impossible for death to occur from drinking coffee, however, misuse of tablets containing caffeine have been the cause of some deaths.

ATTENTION HOMEOWNERS OF HANCOCK COUNTY

Homestead exemption forms will be mailed to you during the first week of January. Please sign the form, retain the blue copy and return the rest to us in the stamped addressed envelope.

If your exempt status has changed since last year, (become over 65, Social Security disability, etc.) do not sign the form mailed to you but come into the office and we will assist you in filing a new form.

If you are new to the community and are eligible for Homestead Exemption, please come to the office and we will assist you in making your application.

If your mailing address has changed, please correct same on the form before returning to us.

PLEASE NOTE: Under recently passed legislation, individual homeowners who were formerly ineligible for the homestead exemption rate because of businesses in the home, may now be eligible for a partial exemption. Please reapply for 1985 between January 1, and April 1.

For your convenience the Tax Assessor-Tax Collector's office will be open during the noon hour and on Saturdays a half day starting January 4.

Ole Miss Center fully endowed

A $100,000 grant pledged over three years to The University of Mississippi to establish a program that would boost economic literacy in Mississippi has been fulfilled one year earlier.

Memphis brothers Eddie H. Gatlin, president and founder of Ig-Lo Products Corporation in Hernando, and James R. "Bob" Gatlin, vice president of the firm, presented the University with the remaining two-thirds of the balance, despite an original agreement of equal increments over three years. The first payment was made by the Gatlins in December 1984.

Dr. Edgar Wood, director of the Gatlin Center for Economic Education at Ole Miss, said that the Gatlins fulfilled the $100,000 grant one year earlier because "they wanted to get the Center going full speed sooner." The center and its programs are funded with accrued interest from the grant monies.

The Gatlin brothers established the Center to improve education for Mississippi students in free-enterprise economics and Dr. Wood said the Center's ultimate goal is "to wipe out economic illiteracy in Mississippi."

The director said the increased income from the Gatlin grant will enable the Center to offer more seminars and continuing education workshops for primary and secondary students and teachers.

Your Stars Above

BY EVE EWING

ARIES (3/21-4/19) You want immediate results in whatever you undertake, and sometime this is not possible. Overcome your penchant for tossing in the towel when you don't get what you want when you want it.

TAURUS (4/20-5/20) Your excellent taste in all things artistic makes you a superb host, but you don't have much patience with those who don't share your tastes. Live and let live and leave off the criticism.

GEMINI (5/21-6/20) If Alexander Graham Bell hadn't invented the telephone, you would have. You get as much pleasure chatting to far off friends as you would if they lived next door.

CANCER (6/21-7/22) Close, personal relationships are the only kind you can deal with. This is fine if you do not push new friends too fast. Some people feel smothered by your well-meant intensity.

LEO (7/23-8/22) Leos love a challenge and if one doesn't present itself, then they are constantly seeking one. The domestic hearth is not your best scene, so seek your fortune farther afield.

VIRGO (8/23-9/22) A love of fine things and the good life is balanced with your fondness for a hefty bank account, and you make a good bargainer. Tact and charm add to your character. Many diplomats are Virgos.

LIBRA (9/23-10/22) An easy nature leads you to accept people and situations at face value with little thought to what lies beneath. This can lead to some messy relationships. Get to know people before you get involved.

SCORPIO (10/23-11/21) Possessed of an incredible sixth sense, you usually can anticipate business and career moves, but you are less astute in your personal affairs.

SAGITTARIUS (11/22-12/21) Those born under this sign do everything with elegance and flair, whether it's eating a sandwich or meeting the President. You can spend five dollars with the class of a millionaire blowing half his fortune.

CAPRICORN (12/22-1/19) The next upward move in your career will involve some exciting travel. This is a good time to bone up on those nearly forgotten languages you studied in school.

AQUARIUS (1/20-2/18) Never a crowd follower, always a leader is your motto, and you stick to it through thick and thin. It would behoove you to give some attention to just where you are leading.

PISCES (2/19-3/20) You invariably pick the wrong friends even when the right ones are at hand. This is often a sign of insecurity, and you might benefit from some professional counseling to get at the reasons for your actions.

Ole Miss Center fully endowed

A $100,000 grant pledged over three years to The University of Mississippi to establish a program that would boost economic literacy in Mississippi has been fulfilled one year earlier.

Memphis brothers Eddie H. Gatlin, president and founder of Ig-Lo Products Corporation in Hernando, and James R. "Bob" Gatlin, vice president of the firm, presented the University with the remaining two-thirds of the balance, despite an original agreement of equal increments over three years. The first payment was made by the Gatlins in December 1984.

Dr. Edgar Wood, director of the Gatlin Center for Economic Education at Ole Miss, said that the Gatlins fulfilled the $100,000 grant one year earlier because "they wanted to get the Center going full speed sooner." The center and its programs are funded with accrued interest from the grant monies.

The Gatlin brothers established the Center to improve education for Mississippi students in free-enterprise economics and Dr. Wood said the Center's ultimate goal is "to wipe out economic illiteracy in Mississippi."

The director said the increased income from the Gatlin grant will enable the Center to offer more seminars and continuing education workshops for primary and secondary students and teachers.

Your Stars Above BY EVE EWING

ARIES (3/21-4/19) You want immediate results in whatever you undertake, and sometime this is not possible. Overcome your penchant for tossing in the towel when you don't get what you want when you want it.

TAURUS (4/20-5/20) Your excellent taste in all things artistic makes you a superb host, but you don't have much patience with those who don't share your tastes. Live and let live and leave off the criticism.

GEMINI (5/21-6/20) If Alexander Graham Bell hadn't invented the telephone, you would have. You get as much pleasure chatting to far off friends as you would if they lived next door.

CANCER (6/21-7/22) Close, personal relationships are the only kind you can deal with. This is fine if you do not push new friends too fast. Some people feel smothered by your well-meant intensity.

LEO (7/23-8/22) Leos love a challenge and if one doesn't present itself, then they are constantly seeking one. The domestic hearth is not your best scene, so seek your fortune farther afield.

VIRGO (8/23-9/22) A love of fine things and the good life is balanced with your fondness for a hefty bank account, and you make a good bargainer. Tact and charm add to your character. Many diplomats are Virgos.

LIBRA (9/23-10/22) An easy nature leads you to accept people and situations at face value with little thought to what lies beneath. This can lead to some messy relationships. Get to know people before you get involved.

SCORPIO (10/23-11/21) Possessed of an incredible sixth sense, you usually can anticipate business and career moves, but you are less astute in your personal affairs.

SAGITTARIUS (11/22-12/21) Those born under this sign do everything with elegance and flair, whether it's eating a sandwich or meeting the President. You can spend five dollars with the class of a millionaire blowing half his fortune.

CAPRICORN (12/22-1/19) The next upward move in your career will involve some exciting travel. This is a good time to bone up on those nearly forgotten languages you studied in school.

AQUARIUS (1/20-2/18) Never a crowd follower, always a leader is your motto, and you stick to it through thick and thin. It would behoove you to give some attention to just where you are leading.

PISCES (2/19-3/20) You invariably pick the wrong friends even when the right ones are at hand. This is often a sign of insecurity, and you might benefit from some professional counseling to get at the reasons for your actions.

We're helping to find our country's missing children!

National-Canal Villere Supermarkets are proud to be able to help in the search for our missing children! Now when you buy National brand half gallon whole homogenized milk, you'll find pictures of missing children on the cartons. If you can identify the children pictured or any other child, report information you might have to: The National Center for Missing and Exploited Children 1-800-843-5678. We know finding these children is important to you and you're important to us!

MAYOR VISITS SCHOOL—Waveland Mayor John Longo displays flag and patch flown on the Space Shuttle Columbia's flight of April 12-14, 1981 to the students of Waveland Elementary School. The flag was presented to the City of Waveland by Jerry Hlass, manager of the National Space Technology Laboratories at the recent Partners in Progress workshop. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas).

SCHOOL ASSEMBLY—A student assembly was held at Waveland Elementary School for a visit by Waveland Mayor John Longo. A flag flown on the Space Shuttle

Columbia was shown to the students by Mayor Longo who also answered questions on his duties as mayor. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas).

4-H News By Daney Jackson Hancock County 4-H Youth Agent

ABOUT 4-H

This is the first in a series of articles about 4-H, the 4-H program in Hancock County, and how you can get involved in this youth education program.

4-H is an informal, practical learning-by-doing program for youth aged 8 through 18. 4-H members live on farms and in town. They live in rural, suburban, and urban areas. They come from all racial, cultural, economic and social backgrounds. 4-H is the youth education program of the Cooperative Extension Service of Mississippi State University.

4-H grew out of the progressive education movement of late 1800 and early 1900 America. Rural school principals and superintendents were interested in applying some of the practical concepts to the reading, writing, and arithmetic they were trying to teach to rural youth who had little identification with the urban settings of much of the material they were studying of the business examples being used in arithmetic.

At this time the agricultural colleges and experiment stations were accumulating a body of scientific knowledge which could improve productivity and thus living standards of the farmers of the day. Unfortunately, farmers showed little inclination to adopt the "book farming" methods of the college professors. These professors began to consider the possibilities of teaching the farmers' children the improved agricultural methods and thus indirectly reaching the farmers.

The rural school principals and superintendents teamed with the agricultural college researchers to form corn clubs in most of the eastern and southern states during this period. W.H. "Corn Club" Smith formed the first corn club in Mississippi in 1907.

A professor Perkins from Mississippi A&M College (MSU) provided seed corn of an approved variety. Dr. Seaman Knapp, Head of the Farmers Cooperative Demonstration work of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, learned from one of his agents of Smith's work and extended to him for the next year a franking privilege and a salary of $1 per year.

This was the first time the USDA had been involved in a youth program and established a three-way partnership of county, state, and federal governments working together.

This pattern would develop later as the Congress passed the Smith-Lever Act in 1914 forming the Cooperative Extension Service as a partnership between the federal government through USDA, the state government through land grant universities, and the local government through the county boards of supervisors.

While other states had corn clubs before Mississippi, none had the federal partner in the corn club before Mississippi. This is the basis of Mississippi's claim to be the birthplace of 4-H.

Corn clubs expanded into cotton clubs and finally to tomato clubs for the girls. The first pig club in the country was in Starkville, Mississippi. The champion pig that year was shown by Nannie Sikes, thus beginning a tradition in 4-H girls beating boys at their own projects.

The four leaf clover emblem developed as a trademark for products grown by boys and girls participating in the various project clubs. The original club seems to have been largely a group of youth scattered over a school system with no organization or meetings.

In the late teens it appears that the term 4-H Club came into being with standards being developed for a club which included meetings, officers, and a program of work.

Thus, the corn club movement developed into the present 4-H movement. School superintendents had hoped that by growing corn, boys would learn to read better by reading bulletins to learn how to grow better corn. They expected that their arithmetic skills would be sharpened as they measured and weighed their yields.

Finally, writing skills would be improved with the completion of a written report of the project. The agricultural college professors wanted farmers to learn better farming methods as they saw their children apply them with good results. All these things happened, but they also laid the foundation for the formation of the nation's largest youth program - 4-H.

Anyone interested in learning more about 4-H, or wishing to get involved either as an adult volunteer or as a member should contact the Hancock County Extension 4-H Youth Agent at 467-5456.

President's job open at River

The deadline for applying for the position of president at Pearl River College is Wednesday, Jan. 1.

According to Jack Stewart, chairman of the Pearl River Board of Trustees, no applications or nominations will be considered after this date.

The Pearl River College Presidential Search Committee began accepting applications Nov. 1, to fill the position presently held by Dr. Marvin R. White. Dr. White is retiring July 1, 1986.

Only applicants with a doctorate degree with at least five years experience in teaching and/or school administration will be considered.

Stewart said applications will be screened by the five-member Presidential Search Committee. Final approval will be made by the 16-member Board of Trustees.

Requests for additional information, applications or nominations should be submitted to Presidential Search Committee, Pearl River College, P.O. Box 14, Poplarville, MS 39470.

Applications should be clearly marked "Application" on the outside of the envelope to ensure complete confidentiality.

Applications may be obtained locally from the president's secretary in the Administration Building on the Pearl River campus.

Official search for downed airplane

By BRENDA HEAT
Law enforcement officials began a search late Saturday for an airplane that had crashed near the Hanco line.
Initially the possibility was reported to the Pearl River Sheriff's Department who had heard a call citizen's band radio.
Sheriff Ronald Peterson said Saturday officials were trying to verify the airplane.
Peterson added that he had seen a green and white airplane very low.
Officials contacted various agencies in the area reported a plane missing.
A Coast Guard search was scheduled to begin a search area Saturday afternoon.
At present, law enforcement officials for both Hancock and Hanco River counties, the Coast Guard and numerous volunteers are searching for the plane.

Stolen boat recovered

By BRENDA HEAT
Bay St. Louis Police officials recovered a stolen 1984 Blue and White boat with inboard/outboard motor Friday.
The boat was discovered in a lot near Booker T. Washington Railroad Avenue. Area officials reported the boat to the police Friday morning.
Using the National Crime Information Computer, Bay St. Louis Police Officer Tom Ralph discovered the boat had been reported stolen by owner Kenneth Brumfield of Mandeville, La.

Homicide investigation continues

By BRENDA HEAT
Bay St. Louis Police Department officials plan to travel to New Orleans Wednesday to talk with medical examiner, Dr. Thomas J. Bennett.
Bay Police Chief Ray M. Murtagh said Detective David Murtagh expected to talk with Bennett about the death of Lombardo Jr. of Bay St. Louis.
Lombardo was killed December 11 at 114 McDonald home. His body was not discovered until hours later by firefighters called to the residence by a neighbor who spotted a fire in the house.
Bennett reported immediately following the incident that Lombardo had died from wounds from two gunshot wounds, one in the head and one in the chest.
